Friday's Field Trip

On Friday, we'll leave school at 9:10 in the morning to walk over to the Hockaday Art Museum for a guided tour and an art activity to teach us about "The Elements of Art": line, color, and shape. We have several chaperones already lined up, but anyone is welcome to join us! (I am asking, though, that no one coming with us dress in costume as we keep this day as a "learning day" and do not do any Halloween activities. Thank you!)

Reading Calendars

Attached to this newsletter is November's Reading Calendar. Please put it up in a safe place for your child to enter in minutes of nightly reading (they may need some adult help!). The October calendar could be returned next Monday. Thanks!

First GRANDMA Guest Reader – and a Celebrity Too!

Lauryn's sneaky mom arranged for her grandmother to be our Guest Reader on Friday! She is a veterinarian doctor and had just come from taping a segment on emergency pet care on The Today Show. To see the video, go to this photo on our Guest Readers page or search The Today show for Dr. Bernadine Cruz. She read Bedhead and everyone enjoyed (and could relate to) the book.

Next Week's Field Trip

Next Friday afternoon we'll be going to the district's VoAg Center for their annual American Heritage Day meant to show elementary students the history and importance of agriculture in our valley. We probably won't have extra room on the bus but you are welcome to join us! The cost is 50¢ per student and you can send that in anytime.

Conference Papers Attached

Also attached to this newsletter are any papers from your conference. Please look the information over again, especially the goal, and put it in a safe place where your child can see how important it is to you! Ask them once a week how they are working on their goal and please, as always, contact me with any questions you may have. I'm very impressed with how your children ran the conferences, including the pre-conference work!
